The State Board of Education was established in its present form by the Missouri Constitution of 1945. The State Board of Education consists of eight lay citizens appointed by the Governor with advice and consent of the Senate. Article IX, Section 2(a) also states that no more than four members of the Board may belong to the same political party. State Board members are appointed for eight-year terms which are arranged so that only one term expires each year. The Board elects its own officers.

The responsibilities of the State Board of Education extend from preschool through postsecondary and adult education programs. These responsibilities include:

- Establishment of policies for the leadership, service and regulation of public education. These policies are administered by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.
- Operation of the State School for the Blind and the State School for the Deaf.
- Operation of State Schools for Severely Handicapped Children.
- Classification of schools and certification of teachers.
- Administration of vocational education, vocational rehabilitation and veterans' education programs.
- Administration and supervision of programs under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 and other federal programs.
- Apportionment of state moneys.
- Publication of laws relating to schools.
- Collection and publication of information which reflects continuously the condition and management of the state's public schools.

PART I

Highlights of 1992-93

Missouri's school-funding system was ruled to be unconstitutional, and the legislature responded by adopting the Outstanding Schools Act.

As the 1992-93 school year began, much of the state's attention was focused on the Jefferson City courtroom of Cole County Circuit Court Judge Byron Kinder.

On Sept. 21, Judge Kinder began hearing a lawsuit challenging the Foundation Program, the state's major source of funding for public school districts. More than 100 school districts, organized as two main groups of plaintiffs, sued the state. They contended that the funding formula used to allocate nearly $1 billion per year to local school districts was unconstitutional. The plaintiffs charged that the formula was not funded adequately to function properly and that the existing formula created inequity in funding and educational opportunities among school districts. The trial lasted three weeks.

On January 15, 1993, barely a week after the General Assembly had convened and four days after the inauguration of Gov. Mel Carnahan, Judge Kinder issued his decision. The Foundation Program formula, he ruled, "does not pass constitutional muster." (See box, page 9, for other highlights of Judge Kinder's ruling.)

Judge Kinder also set a deadline — 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature's 1993 session — for lawmakers to develop a new funding formula that would be acceptable. As a result, efforts to revamp the funding system, which had been in effect since 1977, dominated the General Assembly's 1993 session.

On the last day of the legislative session — May 14, 1993 — the General Assembly adopted the Outstanding Schools Act. It included a new funding formula, a package of tax increases designed to raise nearly $400 million in additional state revenue for schools over a four-year period, as well as an ambitious set of policy initiatives designed to improve student performance and increase local school districts' accountability.

The Act (known during the session as Senate Bill 380) was hotly debated by the General Assembly because of changes in the funding formula, the tax-increase provisions, and other issues. As a result, the bill nearly stalled during the legislative process. However, Gov. Mel

Carnahan worked hard to secure passage of the measure, and the state's major education organizations also lobbied on behalf of the law.

Commissioner of Education Robert E. Bartman called the Outstanding Schools Act "truly a watershed event for Missouri's public schools. Many observers feared that the legislature would fail to deal with the complex and controversial issues involved with revising the funding formula. Although the outcome was in doubt until the very end, legislators got the job done — and I salute them for their work!"

Bartman said Gov. Carnahan, Speaker of the House Bob Griffin, Senate President Pro Tem Jim Mathewson, Senator Harold Caskey (chairman of the Senate Education Committee and a key force in developing the revised funding formula), and Representative Annette Morgan (chairman of the House Education Committee) "deserve a great deal of credit for making the Outstanding Schools Act a reality. There were many issues that could have stalled the bill, and there were some who would have preferred to do nothing. . .Therefore, I am grateful to these leaders who had the vision, courage and grit to accomplish a very difficult job."

In a letter to local school officials (June 15, 1993), Bartman said, "It has been three years since the State Board of Education and I began calling for a serious overhaul of Missouri's school-funding system. Now, with the passage of Senate Bill 380, we have achieved a goal which many felt was politically, if not fiscally, impossible. Although the measure does not solve all of the funding problems for public schools in Missouri, I believe the new law is a major step forward and a real victory for students and schools.

"Over the next four years, we can expect an infusion of up to $400 million in new money in the state's basic funding system for public schools and into several new initiatives. We must make the most of this opportunity. As school leaders, we must be prepared to show the public how and where the new money is being used and what positive impact it is having on students.

"The clear message from Gov. Carnahan and legislative leaders was that a big increase in state funding cannot be justified for business-as-usual. We must respond to that challenge. The new law gives us the framework for working toward fundamental changes in our schools — through the establishment of academic performance standards and new assessment methods, reducing class sizes, expanding the Parents as Teachers program, allocating funds for professional development and other significant measures."

On June 17, 1993, Commissioner Bartman also met with leaders of the state's education-related associations for a detailed review of the new law and its implications for schools and state education officials. During this meeting, Bartman emphasized that teachers and local school officials would be heavily involved in developing the new policies and programs required by the law.

"The new law poses an enormous challenge to Missouri's educational community as well as a historic opportunity to institute meaningful reforms," Bartman said in a news release following the June 17 meeting. The Outstanding Schools Act, he added, is "an unprecedented combination of financial and structural reforms that creates a practical framework — and strong incentives — for progressive changes in our public schools. The entire educational community worked hard for this law. Now we've got to work together to achieve its full benefits."

Several provisions of the law, he noted, are likely to have a major impact on local schools in the future, including:

- Establishing "academic perfor-

Gov. Carnahan Calls for "World-Class Schools"

Mel Carnahan was elected as Missouri's 51st governor on November 3, 1992. He had campaigned aggressively on the issue of education, calling for the development of world-class schools in the Show-Me State. "Without world-class schools, our children don't have a future worth having," he said.

In his inaugural address on January 11, 1993, Gov. Carnahan reinforced his commitment to education.

Missouri's future, he noted, "begins with our children. They may only be a portion of our society, but they're 100 percent of our future.

"Unless we give them the tools and the incentives to learn — and I mean really learn — we doom our children and our workforce to mediocrity and failure. We withdraw the promise of opportunity and prosperity."

To emphasize his interest in education, the governor invited schoolchildren from across the state to participate in the inaugural ceremonies in Jefferson City.

"To the students and parents from all over Missouri who are my guests today, along with those who have dedicated themselves to teaching, I affirm to you that I will make education the real test of my governorship," he said in his address.

"It's going to take a revolution — not just in the classrooms — but around kitchen tables and corporate board rooms. It's going to mean tougher standards for our children, our teachers and ourselves. . . .

"It will require more investment in our schools. And we must demand that the money we invest be better spent. We must raise expectations and demand that we do better. . . .

"The caliber of education we give our children and our grandchildren will shape Missouri's economy and our standard of living. It is the first, crucial step toward full employment, financial security and healthy free enterprise."

mance standards," curriculum frameworks and new assessment methods at the state level.

• Reducing pupil-teacher ratios in the primary grades (K-3).

• Providing earmarked funds in each school district (one percent of basic state aid) for professional development programs.

• Expanding programs and services for at-risk youth. A section of the revised Foundation Formula known as "Line 14" provides funds that local school districts are required to use for programs designed for at-risk children and youth. This funding is based on the number of students in a district who qualify for free or reduced-price meals.

• Expanding the highly successful Parents as Teachers program.

• Providing incentive grants and waivers of regulations to encourage innovative teaching and management practices in local schools.

The new funding formula will be phased in gradually over four years, beginning with the 1993-94 school year. Most of the other provisions of the law will not be implemented until 1994-95 or later, because the General Assembly must appropriate funds for some new programs and the State Board of Education must develop new rules and policies related to several initiatives. All of the main provisions of the law are outlined in Part II of this report (see page 13).

Excerpts from Judge Kinder's Ruling in the Foundation Program Case

The Court finds and concludes that the amount of money available for schools can and does make a difference in the educational opportunities that can be provided to Missouri children. The present Missouri school system does not provide an "equal opportunity" for each Missouri child as guaranteed by the Missouri Constitution. Vast disparities exist in the funding and resources available for education in the approximately 540 school districts in the Missouri school system. . .with facilities ranging from the "golden" to the "god-awful." Those disparities are not because of differing student needs, but instead are associated with local property wealth or are simply irrational.

Missouri does not provide an educational opportunity for each Missouri child "without regard to wealth, birth or accidental condition or circumstance" which is implicit in the Jeffersonian concepts ingrained in our Constitution. The present system of financing the public schools of Missouri does not pass constitutional muster. [Emphasis in original.]

The Court finds, from an analysis of the evidence, that in Missouri education is a fundamental right for children of school age.

Equity measures commonly used to assess the equality of the distribution of a state's resources for public schools indicate Missouri schools are among the most inequitably financed in the nation and the disparities have intensified over the past decade.

Cole County Circuit Court Judge Byron Kinder issued his ruling in the case Committee for Educational Equality, et. al. v. State of Missouri (No. CV 190-1371CC) on January 15, 1993.

Voters Earmark Lottery Funds for Education; Amendment 7 Fails

At the primary election on Aug. 4, 1992, Missouri voters overwhelmingly approved Amendment 11, a constitutional change that earmarks proceeds from the Missouri Lottery to benefit education. The measure passed by a 3-to-1 margin.

Previously, lottery proceeds were deposited in the state's General Revenue fund, and there was no guarantee that such funds would be spent for education.

As a result of Amendment 11, net proceeds of the Missouri Lottery and any future gaming activities such as riverboat gambling or horse racing will be placed in a separate fund and appropriated by the General Assembly to support elementary and secondary education programs or public higher education institutions.

The change made by Amendment 11 took effect July 1, 1993. Therefore, the first earmarked funds were made available to schools and colleges during the 1993-94 fiscal year.

Missouri voters also defeated Amendment 7 during the August 1992 primary election by a 2-to-1 margin. This measure would have eased the "super majority" (two-thirds) requirement for approval of local tax levies. The proposal would have allowed local school boards to set a basic tax rate of $2 without a popular vote and rates of up to $6 with simple-majority approval.

Graduation Rate Inched Up in 1992

The graduation rate in Missouri's public high schools inched upward in 1992, marking the first positive change in this statistic since 1985. This finding was included in a report presented to the State Board of Education in March 1993. The report provided a summary of statewide data and trends as well as graduation and dropout statistics for each school district.

The report showed that the four-year completion rate in public high schools increased to 73.2 percent in 1992, compared with 72.5 percent in 1991. The completion (or "persistence") rate is the percentage of students who graduate compared with the number enrolled as freshmen four years earlier.

"While this one-year increase may not signal the start of a new trend, I hope it means we have turned the corner," said Commissioner Bartman in a news release about the graduation statistics.

The study also concluded that, between 1988 and 1992, about 15 percent of the students who did not graduate from high school earned a high school equivalency (GED) certificate. The statewide figures also indicated that 25 to 30 percent of Missouri high school dropouts obtain a GED certificate by age 25.

State Board Approves "Unified Science" Teaching Certificate

In December 1992, the State Board of Education approved final regulations to establish requirements for a new "unified science" teaching certificate. The intent of the certificate is to encourage teachers to be trained in all major science fields (biology, chemistry, physics and earth science) so that they can teach these subjects in a more integrated fashion.

Another goal of the new policy is to provide qualified instructors who can teach introductory-level courses in all of the sciences in small high schools. Because many science teachers have traditionally specialized in a particular field such as chemistry or physics, state education officials were concerned that small high schools would not be able to offer a full range of science courses because they cannot afford to hire specialists in each field to serve a small number of students.

A plan for the unified certificate that was originally proposed by the Board was attacked by some professional groups as a "watering down" of the existing certification requirements. As a result, the Board modified its plan before taking action to adopt final regulations. The final policy retained the broad educational requirements for the unified certificate, but added a provision that prospective teachers must earn an "endorsement" (a major) in one of the scientific fields. This provision actually increased the educational requirements for prospective science teachers.

Cynthia Kalkwarf, Pattonville School District (St. Louis County), was Missouri's 1992-93 Teacher of the Year. A science and reading teacher at Holman Middle School, Mrs. Kalkwarf was a leader in revising the science curriculum to provide more hands-on learning experiences for students.

Blue Ribbon and Gold Star Schools Honored

Seven Missouri secondary schools were chosen in 1993 as "Blue Ribbon Schools" by the U.S. Department of Education. They were among 260 outstanding schools throughout the nation that were honored. The Blue Ribbon Schools program honors outstanding elementary and secondary schools in alternating years.

Missouri's Blue Ribbon Schools for 1992-93 were

- Eureka High School, Rockwood School District
- Farmington High School, Farmington School District
- Jefferson Junior High, Columbia School District
- Pattonville High School, Pattonville School District
- J.A. Rogers Academy of Liberal Arts & Science, Kansas City School District
- Rolla Middle School, Rolla School District
- Rolla High School, Rolla School District

The seven Blue Ribbon Schools chosen for national recognition were nominated by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. They were nominated from among 13 secondary schools that had been recognized earlier in the year in the state-level Gold Star Schools Program, sponsored by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education and Mercantile Bancorporation of St. Louis.

The six other schools designated as Gold Star Schools for 1992-93 were

- Fulton Middle School, Fulton School District
- Hazelwood East High School, Hazelwood School District
- Hickman High School, Columbia School District
- Lee's Summit High School, Lee's Summit School District
- Marquette Visual and Performing Arts Middle School, St. Louis School District
- Salisbury High School, Salisbury School District

Two Districts Close

Effective July 1, 1993, two school districts closed and were officially annexed to other districts. The Wheeling R-IV District, an elementary district in Livingston County, annexed to the Chillicothe R-II School District. Wakenda C-2, an elementary district in Carroll County, also annexed to the Carrollton R-VII School District.

The Case for New Standards

by Robert E. Bartman
Commissioner of Education

During the late 1950s and early 1960s, a U.S. automaker advertised one of its luxury models as the "American standard" for cars. Those commercials suggested that all other cars should be compared to this model because it was the "American standard."

For those of us old enough to remember, these commercials are a reminder of how much things have changed in our lifetimes. We have seen the dramatic impact of international competition on the automobile industry as foreign-made cars have captured a major share of the American market. In the auto industry today, the focus has clearly shifted to meeting "world-class standards."

During the recent Olympics in Barcelona, we saw world-class standards defined before our eyes. It was particularly inspiring to watch Gail Devers win the women's 100-meter dash. A year ago, she faced the prospect of having both feet amputated, and her athletic career appeared to be over. But she persevered and set a world-class standard for the women's 100-meter race.

We understand and accept world-class standards for automobiles and athletes. Can we do the same thing in education? I believe the goal for Missouri educators during the remainder of this decade should be to define and institute "world-class standards" for all of our students and schools.

Multiple Standards

Currently, there is no accepted performance standard for graduates of Missouri's public schools. We do have a state requirement that students earn at least 22 units of credit in high school. This is not really a quality standard, though; it is a measure of how much time students spend in their classes.

The exit standards for students today consist of a series of hurdles and a smorgasbord of different course titles and requirements, all of which are modified by local political expediency and expectations. As a result, we have "standard drift," with academic requirements and standards varying widely from class to class, school to school, and from one community to another.

We have 477 different standards for students in Missouri, because that's how many public high schools we have. Because the expectations and resources of our schools vary so greatly, I fear that many young people today are not being well-prepared to meet world-class standards, either in the workplace or in higher education.

21st Century Standards

The time has come, I believe, when we can no longer afford to allow every school and every community to set — perhaps by default — its own standards for academic and vocational education. In the highly competitive, worldwide marketplace of the future, we cannot tolerate different standards for different groups of kids in different parts of our state.

To prepare Missouri students for the future — to give them a real chance to play at a world-class level — I think it is time for us to establish uniform performance standards in the public schools and a high-stakes assessment program that will tell us if we are reaching those goals.

I am not in favor of a so-called "exit test," which seems to be the most politically popular approach to imposing more rigorous demands on students and schools. Instead, we need to define clear, high standards for all students, use "benchmark" testing at several points to determine how students are progressing, and then be prepared to make whatever adjustments are required to be sure that students, in fact, meet the standards.

The entire responsibility for this ambitious agenda cannot rest solely with the educational community. In order to achieve more-demanding standards in our schools, many things must change. Higher standards will not overcome the effects of poverty, hunger, family instability and low expectations. As a nation and a state, we must improve the out-of-school environment which, in too many cases, virtually guarantees failure for children in school.

We will not realize our state's constitutional mandate for equal opportunity until rich kids and poor kids, city kids and rural kids, black kids and white kids, are driven by the same high expectations for learning and work-readiness. Nor will we meet the test of equal opportunity until we eliminate the gross inequities in resources which are rapidly splitting our school system into two camps — the haves and the have-nots.

Defining world-class standards will not be easy, but we must try. We must not, however, permit the debate about standards to be shaped by political rhetoric or politically expedient, but superficial, "reforms." The educational community must provide the leadership to define world-class standards; to win endorsement of those standards from parents, business leaders and taxpayers; and, finally, to implement the standards in every school.

This article appeared in the fall 1992 edition of Missouri Schools, the magazine published by the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. Dr. Bartman began advocating more rigorous standards for Missouri schools before the Outstanding Schools Act of 1993 required the establishment of state-level "academic performance standards."

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION

Here is a summary of the major education-related legislation enacted in 1993 by the 87th General Assembly, first regular session.

Outstanding Schools Act. This comprehensive law (Senate Bill 380) revised the state's school-funding formula, increased taxes to provide additional revenue for public schools, and included many other provisions designed to improve public education. A detailed analysis of the Outstanding Schools Act is found in Part II of this report.

Use of Tobacco in Schools. House Bill 348 prohibits the use of any tobacco products inside public school buildings and on school buses. The measure also bans tobacco in any part of licensed child care facilities when children are present. The law permits local boards of education to establish stricter limits on the use of tobacco, but it also allows school boards to set policies that permit the use of tobacco in outdoor facilities, on school grounds or in facilities not occupied by students. (Sections 191.775-191.777 RSMo.)

Immunization. House Bill 522 expands the list of diseases against which children must be immunized to include tetanus and pertussis. Children may not attend school unless they have been immunized against all the diseases specified by law or unless they produce evidence of having begun the immunization process. Under previous law, children could enroll and attend school for up to 15 days in order to get required immunizations. (Section 167.181 RSMo.) House Bill 522 eliminated this 15-day "grace period." The law also requires the Department of Health to establish an advisory committee on childhood immunization and to develop educational materials that encourage parents to provide complete immunizations for their infants and young children. (Section 192.072 RSMo.)

Health Care Reform. The General Assembly approved an omnibus law, House Bill 564, designed to expand and improve health care for Missouri residents. The law includes provisions affecting many aspects of Missouri's health care system. It includes provisions designed to encourage public schools and school districts to participate in, and receive funding through, the Medicaid system and to play a more direct part in providing primary and preventive care for Medicaid-eligible children. The law also established a state-level Health Initiatives Fund to provide grants for public schools and other agencies to increase the availability of nurses and other health-related services in schools. (Sections 167.600-167.621 RSMo.)

Funding for Sheltered Workshops. Under previous law, local sheltered workshops, which provide employment for adults with disabilities, received a subsidy of $7 per day for each adult who works for six hours or more per day. House Bill 639 raised this subsidy to $8 per day, effective July 1, 1994, and to $9 per day beginning in 1995. Sheltered workshops also will receive prorated amounts for individuals who work less than six hours per day. (Section 178.930 RSMo.)

Special Education Transition Services. Senate Bill 321 requires that the Individualized Education Program (IEP) for students with disabilities include a statement of "transition services" that such students need in order to move from school to integrated employment. The description of transition services must be developed no later than age 16. The law also requires the establishment of the Missouri Interagency Council on Transition. The 18-member council must include the directors of several state agencies, a representative of the Governor's Committee on Employment of Persons with Disabilities, parents, professionals and others. (Section 162.1000 RSMo.)

PART II

Overview of the Outstanding Schools Act of 1993

Gov. Mel Carnahan signed the Outstanding Schools Act on May 27, 1993, in Jefferson City. The comprehensive package of policy and school-funding reforms was approved by the General Assembly in the final hours of its 1993 session. A group of fifth graders from New Bloomfield — members of the Class of 2000 — observed the bill-signing ceremony.

"The Class of 2000 reminds me of my mission as governor — to improve education, and to do what I can to make sure each youngster in this state has the opportunity to learn," Gov. Carnahan said as he signed the law. "If the Outstanding Schools Act is judged to be historic, it will be because it does something significant for the children of Missouri. It solves our problem with the foundation formula, and it improves education."

The following pages provide a brief description of the provisions of the law.

Overview of the Outstanding Schools Act of 1993

Outstanding Schools Trust Fund

The law established the Outstanding Schools Trust Fund to finance the new school-funding formula and other programs. A combination of individual and corporate tax increases was authorized to provide additional revenue. The federal income tax deduction for corporations was reduced to 50% in tax years beginning after September 1, 1993. The state tax rate on corporate income increases from 5% to 6.25%. After January 1, 1994, federal income tax deductions will be limited to $5,000 for individual returns and $10,000 for joint returns. On average, these changes will affect individuals with adjusted gross income of $35,000 or more and couples with adjusted gross income of $75,000 or more. (Sections 143.071, 143.171, 160.500)

Commission on Performance

The Commission on Performance was established to provide advice and counsel to the State Board of Education in the development and implementation of the Outstanding Schools Act. The commission is composed of elected officials, State Board of Education members, the Commissioner of Education and educators; 25% of the members must be active classroom teachers. The Commission also is to study the revised Foundation Formula and make recommendations to the legislature to ensure that equity and adequacy tests for equal educational access are being met. (Section 160.510)

Academic Performance Standards

The State Board of Education is required to adopt no more than 75 "academic performance standards" which establish the knowledge, skills and competencies necessary for students to successfully advance through the public school system; lead to or qualify a student for high school graduation; prepare students for postsecondary education or the workplace or both; and are necessary to preserve the rights and liberties of the people. The State Board is required to convene work groups, the majority of which must be active classroom teachers, to assist in developing the performance standards. (Section 160.514)

Curriculum Frameworks

The State Board of Education also is required to develop model written curriculum frameworks that may be used by school districts. The curriculum frameworks must incorporate and reflect the academic performance standards adopted by the State Board. (Section 160.514)

Districts to Adopt Written Curriculum

This section requires local boards of education to adopt or develop written curriculum designed to ensure that students attain the knowledge, skills and competencies represented by the academic performance standards. The law does not mandate a state curriculum. (Section 160.514)

Statewide Assessment System

The law requires the State Board of Education to develop a statewide assessment system that provides the maximum flexibility for local school districts to determine the degree to which students are proficient in the knowledge, skills and competencies represented by the state-defined academic performance standards. Beginning July 1, 1998, the State Board also must consider results from the statewide assessment system when classifying school districts. The assessment system will track the performance of each school in the state only against its previous performance. (Sections 160.518, 163.023)

Waiver of Regulations

The Commissioner of Education is required to develop a plan for the waiver of state rules and regulations for schools whose students perform for three successive years at exemplary levels, as identified by the State Board on the statewide assessment system. The purpose of the waiver is to promote flexibility in school operations, encourage efficiency in the delivery of instruction, and promote school-centered decision making. Requirements which may be waived include use of the Missouri Mastery and Achievement Tests (MMAT), school classification standards and other requirements determined by the Commissioner of Education. Such rules must be reinstated in any year that a school fails to satisfy the criteria for exemplary performance. (Section 160.518)

Reporting School and District Information

The State Board of Education must adopt a policy requiring school districts to issue annual reports to the public. Such reports must provide a comparison of the performance of each school in a district against itself from year to year or as compared to a base year. The reports must include data pertaining to student achievement, school district finances, course offerings, pupil-teacher ratios and other indicators. The State Board also must make an annual report of the accreditation status of all school districts. (Section 160.522)

State Board to Consult Outside Groups

In developing academic performance standards and the statewide assessment system, the State Board of Education must consider the work done by other states, regional and national experts, discipline-based associations, and other professional groups. The State Board is to contract with such national experts, as approved by the Commission on Performance, to assure the validity and reliability of the statewide assessment system. The General Assembly may prevent the assessment system from being implemented by adoption of a concurrent resolution. (Section 160.526)

Ad Hoc Committees

The Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Education must establish ad hoc committees of parents, professional educators, community leaders, and representatives of business, industry and labor to provide advice to the State Board of Education on the adoption of performance standards, curriculum frameworks and the new assessment system. (Section 160.526)

Funds Earmarked for Professional Development

Beginning with the 1993-1994 school year, each school district must allocate one percent of basic state aid received through the Foundation Formula (exclusive of categorical add-ons) for professional development activities for teachers and administrators. The funds must be spent for professional development activities which are designed to meet local school-improvement plans, as directed by each district's professional development committee, after consultation with the superintendent and approval by the local board of education. (Section 160.530)

State-Level Funds to Address Critical Needs

Beginning in 1993-94, the law also authorizes the Commissioner of Education to use one percent of the funds appropriated for distribution through the equalization portion of the Foundation Formula to address statewide "areas of critical need for learning and development" and to disseminate information about successful professional teaching practices and programs. Critical-need areas include at-risk children, parent involvement, assessment techniques, anti drug, alcohol and gang activities, "Family Schools" and adult literacy. The Commissioner also must dedicate one-tenth of one percent of such funds to a "Success Leads to Success" grant program. The program is intended to facilitate school-to-school information networks for the exchange of successful practices. (Section 160.530)

School Building Revolving Fund

The law establishes a School Building Revolving Fund, beginning in Fiscal Year 1996, to provide loans to school districts for capital improvement projects and the improvement of existing school facilities. The revolving fund is to be supported by proceeds from riverboat gaming and projected savings in expenditures related to court-ordered desegregation. (Sections 160.534, 166.275, 166.300)

Academically Deficient Schools

By July 1, 1996, the State Board of Education is required to develop procedures and criteria for determining that a school building is "academically deficient." The results from the statewide assessment system are to be used in making this determination. Any school being considered as possibly deficient must be examined by an outside audit team and, if necessary, a management team appointed by the State Board, to determine the cause of the school's poor performance and to identify methods for improvement. If the audit team recommends a rating of academically deficient, the State Board must make that designation and, subject to availability, provide resources as recommended by the management team to help the school improve. At least half of the members of such evaluation teams shall be classroom teachers.

A member of a local school board of a district that contains an academically deficient school may be removed from office in a recall election. Further, a local board of education may suspend indefinite contracts of staff members after a due process hearing and issue probationary contracts to all certificated staff in an academically deficient school. A local board of education is prohibited from issuing new contracts or renewing contracts to the superintendent or the principal of an academically deficient school for a period of longer than one year. A probationary teacher in an academically deficient school cannot earn tenure until one year after the school is no longer considered deficient. (Section 160.538)

New Foundation Formula

The law created a new Foundation Formula, including a "hold-harmless clause," and provided about $390 million in additional state aid for local school districts. The new formula and additional funding will be implemented over a four-year period, beginning with the 1993-94 school year. (The hold-harmless provision means that no school district will receive less state aid, on a per-pupil basis, than it did before the new formula was enacted.) The law required school districts to have an equalized operating tax levy of at least $2 for the 1993 tax year and an equalized operating tax levy of at least $2.75 for the 1994 tax year and beyond in order to receive increases in state aid. Beginning September 1, 1997, a school district that does not have an equalized operating tax levy of $2.75 must be rated as unclassified (unaccredited) by the State Board of Education. (Sections 163.023, 163.031)

Teacher Training

Beginning July 1, 1998, when considering the evaluation and approval of teacher training programs in the state, the State Board of Education is to take into account the curriculum of the teacher training program to ensure that the institution promotes the preparation of teachers to instruct in and to assess the knowledge, skills and competencies represented by the academic performance standards. (Section 161.099)

Unaccredited Districts to Lapse

This section of the law states that any school district rated as unaccredited by the State Board of Education for two successive school years shall "lapse" (close). The students and territory of a lapsed school district are to be assigned to another school district or districts by the State Board. (Section 162.081)

Funds Targeted for At-Risk Services

The law authorizes "targeted" funds for school districts to provide special services for children with specially identified educational needs and for at-risk youth. These funds are allocated to districts through "Line 14" of the revised Foundation Formula and are based on the number of students who qualify for free and reduced-price school lunches. School districts have discretion in using these funds for a wide variety of "at-risk" programs and services. (Sections 163.011, 163.031, 166.260)

Full Funding for Kindergarten

The new funding formula allows school districts with all-day kindergarten to receive the full per-pupil amount of state aid. Previously, school districts were entitled to only half of the regular state aid amount for kindergarten students. (Section 163.011)

Minimum Salary Supplement Eliminated

The law eliminates the minimum salary supplement program (established by the Excellence in Education Act of 1985) but maintains the state minimum salary for teachers at $18,000. (Section 163.172)

Minimum Salary for Teachers with Master's and 10 Years' Experience

Beginning with the 1996-97 school year, school districts will be required to have a minimum salary of at least $24,000 for teachers with a master's degree and 10 years of teaching experience. (Section 163.172)

"Shared Time" Enrollment

This section provides that parents may comply with the compulsory attendance law by having children enrolled full-time in public, private, parochial, parish or home schools, or in any combination of such schools. (Section 167.031)

Students in Unaccredited Districts May Attend Other Districts

The section permits students who live in any unaccredited school district to attend an accredited school district, with the district-of-residence required to pay the necessary tuition and transportation costs. Previously, only students who lived in unaccredited high school districts had this option. (Section 167.131)

Tuition Reimbursement Eliminated

The tuition reimbursement program for teachers, established by the Excellence in Education Act of 1985, was eliminated. (Section 168.415)

Grants for School Technology

The law authorizes a new grant program to help school districts purchase computers, data-transmission lines, networking hardware and software, laboratory equipment, staff training and other services in order to promote more effective use of computers and telecommunications technology for instruction and school management. (Section 170.254)

Training for School Board Members

Local school board members elected or appointed after August 28, 1993 (the effective date of the Outstanding Schools Act), are required to complete 16 hours of orientation and training during their first year of service. Such training is to be provided by the Missouri School Boards Association or another organization or agency approved by the State Board of Education. (Section 162.203)

A+ Schools Program

This section establishes the "A+ Schools" program, a voluntary grant program designed to encourage schools to design programs which ensure that all students: graduate from school; complete a selection of high school studies that is challenging and for which there are identified learning expectations; and proceed from high school to a college, postsecondary vocational or technical school, or high-wage job with workplace skill-development opportunities.

To be eligible for grants under this program, schools must eliminate the general education track, establish measurable performance goals for programs and individual courses, develop dropout prevention programs, provide adult literacy training, and implement a formal Partnership Plan that involves many sectors of the community. Schools that qualify for A+ grants for three consecutive years are eligible for certain rule waivers. The law also authorizes qualified graduates of A+ Schools to receive state-funded tuition assistance to help them attend a public postsecondary education institution in Missouri. (Section 160.545)

Funding for Parents as Teachers

The law calls for additional funding for the Parents as Teachers Program so that, by the 1997-98 school year, there will be sufficient state support to allow all eligible children and their parents to voluntarily participate in the program. (Section 178.698)

Vocational Enhancement Grants

The law establishes a grant program to help upgrade vocational education programs, curriculum, equipment and facilities and to promote the development of vocational programs related to high-demand occupations. School districts, area vocational-technical schools and community colleges are eligible for the grants. (Section 178.585)

Reducing Primary Class Size

This section establishes an incentive grant program for the 1995, 1996 and 1997 fiscal years to help school districts reduce the pupil-teacher ratios in the primary grades (kindergarten through grade 3). (Section 160.550)

New Schools Pilot Project

Based on a competitive application process, the State Board of Education will select three school sites that voluntarily commit to take part in a five-year demonstration program, the New Schools Pilot Project. Schools selected to conduct New Schools Pilot projects will receive special state funding to help them implement and demonstrate innovative school management systems and methods. Participating schools will operate under the direction of a five-person team selected by the local board of education. The Commissioner of Education is required to evaluate the New Schools sites and encourage other schools and districts to adopt successful programs and practices developed by the three projects. (Section 162.1010)

Reports on Graduates' Performance

The Coordinating Board for Higher Education is required to prepare an annual report about how Missouri's public high school graduates perform at the state's public colleges and universities. The report is to include data such as grade point averages, course-completion rates, retention rates, etc.

The State Board of Education also is required to prepare an annual report detailing the job-related or postsecondary performance of public high school students who completed a vocational education program. (Sections 161.610, 173.750)

SUMMARY OF COURSES OFFERED IN SUBJECT MATTER FIELDS

Number of Course Titles: There is a listing of course titles for each major area published each year (see Table 36). This number is the aggregate of that listing by area.

Duplicated Count of Students: If a student is enrolled in more than one course in a major area, the student will be counted for each course.

Percent of 9-12 Students Enrolled: This is a ratio of students enrolled in the major areas divided by state fall enrollment for 9-12 grades. The comparison of years shows activities of areas.

Section 162.790 (5) RSMo., authorizes the State Board of Education to accept grants, gifts, donations, or bequests for the use of the Missouri Schools for the Blind, for the Deaf, and for the Handicapped Children to deposit same in the Schools' Trust Fund in the State Treasury, or to invest such funds in stocks, bonds, deeds of trust, or any other investment securities in the amounts and in the proportions that the State Board of Education prudently selects.

The act further provides that "moneys in the School for the Blind Trust Fund or in the School for the Deaf Trust Fund or the School for the Handicapped Children Trust Fund shall not be appropriated for the support of the schools in lieu of general state revenues but shall be appropriated only for the purpose of carrying out the object for which the grant, gift, donation, devise or bequest was made," as recommended by the State Board of Education.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The 1984 Early Childhood Development Act (ECDA) authorizes local school districts to provide annual screening and parent education to families with preschool-aged children. Offered voluntarily and gratuitously to parents, these services are designed to detect and minimize problems that can interfere with children's growth and development and to support parents in their "teaching" role.

Parent education services are available on an ongoing basis from the third trimester of pregnancy to kindergarten entry. Grouped by developmental stages of their children, parents gather regularly to share parenting experiences and to receive developmental information. Periodic home visits are delivered by parent educators with varying backgrounds; all are required to successfully complete program training. Drop-in play groups, toy and book lending libraries, "warm" lines, newsletters, and information and referral networks are services that meet the varying needs of families.
